

The Daily Courant.

Tuesday, January 5. 1703.

From the Paris Gazette, dated Jan. 6.

Verfailles, Jan. 5.

On the 29th of last Month, the Pope's Nuncio in Ordinary to this Court had Publick Audience of the King, and deliver'd a Letter, importing, That his Holiness being assured that the Republick of Venice never had a Design to displease his Majesty, he hop'd the Assurances which should be given of the same by the Ambassador of that Republick, would be favourably receiv'd by his Majesty; and that forgetting all cause of Complaint that may have been given him, his Majesty would renew his Ancient Kindness to the Republick. The day after, Signior Alouisio Pisani Ambassador of Venice had Publick Audience of the King, with the usual Ceremonies; He made a Speech to the King, and confirm'd all that he had said on the Part of the Republick, by a Letter written by the Republick, which he presented to his Majesty. This Letter was full of great Protestations of the Republick's Desire to merit the continuation of his Majesty's Affection, of which the Republick has receiv'd peculiar Marks during the Course of his Glorious Reign: expressing the Republick's regret, that some Judiciary Proceedings, which the Republick thought it self oblig'd to make, should have displeas'd his Majesty; and declaring that the Republick had conferr'd on Signior Pisani the Character of Ambassador Extraordinary only to give the more solemn Demonstration of the Republick's disapproving all that may have given occasion to his Majesty to complain of its Proceedings; concluding, that if any thing might be added to this Declaration of its Sentiments, the Republick intreated his Majesty to supply what may be wanting in the force of the Expressions of this Letter, to his Majesty's entire Satisfaction. The Character of Ambassador Extraordinary expiring on the discharge of this Function, Signior Pisani has resum'd that of Ambassador in Ordinary.

Dresden, Jan. 2. They write from Warsaw, That the Swedes were not advanc'd so far as that City on the 20th Ult. and that in all likelihood their Design is to continue in the Heart of the Kingdom, till the Poles should be constrain'd to yield to their Demands. Tho' the Differences among the Nobility, and the Senators, will retard all Accommodation. 'Tis said the King of Sweden has accepted the Mediation of the Emperor, the Queen of England, and the States General; and that the Cardinal Primate has written again to his Swedish Majesty on the same subject: Mean time the Swedes raise heavy Contributions on all sides: The King of Poland continues still at Thorn, and the King of Sweden at Sandomir.
